

The Master's Program Photography: Research and Methodology offers a specialized theoretical and technical insight in the fields of the research as a tool for developing a photographic project and of the methodology applied to photographic archives.

It also examines the rhetoric and the function of the contemporary photographic image in the area of art and communication.

Lastly, the program enables students to advance their academic as well as their professional carriers.

The program is addressed to graduates of the Department of Photography and Audiovisual Arts as well as to graduates of other Higher Education Institutions in Greece or abroad coming from different fields such as Applied and Fine Arts, Cinema, New Technologies, Media and Communication Studies and History.

Head of the program

Dr Anastasia Markidou

